Museum of the Confederacy - Appomattox Opened March 31, 2012

The Farmville/Prince Edward Historical Society will meet at 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, April 17, 2012, at the new Museum of the Confederacy in Appomattox, Virginia. It is located at the intersection of US 460 and State Route 24. You can meet us at the museum or you can meet at the Farmville Train Station at 6:15 PM and carpool to Appomattox. This special tour of the museum is solely for the Farmville/Prince Edward Historical Society. Please take advantage of this special occasion. We hope to see you there.

The Museum of the Confederacy-Appomattox is rich with artifacts. Among the 179 artifacts; 166 photographs, images, and graphics; 95 documents; 25 Confederate uniforms; there are the sword and uniform worn by General Lee when he met General Grant at the McLean House; the pen he used to sign the document of surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia; and the parole signed by Lee and his staff. A special feature of the 41 interactive workstations is the opportunity for visitors to see the original Confederate parole list to search for an ancestor who may have been present at the surrender. The Museum's galleries include 22 original Confederate flags, including a special exhibition, "Colors of the Gray: Consecration and Controversy." Together the display of Confederate flags are the largest and most comprehensive display of war-time Confederate flags ever exhibited by any institution—museum or otherwise. In addition, there will be two computer stations devoted to the history and design of the Confederate national and battle flags. Outside of the Museum, The Reunification Promenade serves as an exhibit and symbol of how the individual states left the Union in 1861 and came back into the Union after the war. It features the state flags of the states that supported the Confederacy, including Missouri, Kentucky, and Maryland—in total 14 flags of the Confederacy—and the United States flag. Many of these state flags have already been dedicated to the memory of confederate ancestors from those states.

High Bridge Opens

High Bridge Trail State Park opened the last section of the trail that crosses High Bridge on April 6, 2012, 147 years after the Battle of High Bridge. It is more than 2400' long and 160' above the Appomattox River. The original bridge was built in 1853 as part of the South Side Railroad. The current steel-tower bridge was built in 1914. The closest access is on River Road, 3 miles off N. Main St. in Farmville, near trail milepost 146.
